What's Under That Rock, Papa?

When Serea and Kai spend a weekend at their Grammy and Papa's home, it's always a time of discovery and fun! Join them as they encounter the wonders of backyard nature, from the microcosm of life under rocks and compost piles, to the joy of learning why thunder sounds scary and rain clouds are black.

With Serea and Kai as their guides, children and adults will be encouraged to join in exploring their own backyards in search of those fascinating moments of discovery fostering inquiry learning and the riches of playing in nature.

"Dave Bauer brings a close relationship with his grandchildren as well as nature exploration to this fun book that any child will relate to, especially those who have turned over a rock to examine the bugs underneath."

—Judith Frizlen, Director, Rose Garden, Early Childhood Center, author,
Words for Parents in Small Doses
